

Starke County Community Foundation Sponsors Poster

The Starke County Community Foundation sponsored a poster in coordination with the Starke County Tourism Commission. The poster is the second in the series and was created by renowned local artist Mitchell Markovitz.

"The painting represents small town life in the fall of the year when the colors are so vivid," Markovitz said. Children playing in the front yard and thoughts of cocoa and cookies."

The poster series is part of a coordinated county effort, which includes promotion of tourism, economic development, and the arts. The community foundation has also provided framing for this series of posters that will be placed in community and government buildings and other high profile areas in the county.

The community foundation is especially proud of the Starke County Tourism Commission as it was started by a Community Foundation special grant in 1996 and is continuing through support from the Starke County Development Foundation.

Posters and postcards can be purchased from the Director of Starke County Tourism or through the Starke County Community Foundation office.
